Executive Summary

There have been no significant changes to the provision of campus security and community safety programs at the University of Toronto, St. George Campus during the reporting year.

Highlights of Reporting Year

This year's highlights include: a visit and lecture by the Dalai Lama.

Break and Enter

Offenders continue to target University of Toronto buildings in search of electronic items such as laptops, flat screen monitors, televisions and projectors. This was reflected by a slight increase in the number of break and enters over the last few years. Members of the service liaise with members of the Toronto Police major crime unit to investigate these occurrences, leading to a significant decrease from 60 in 2009 to 27 in 2010. Programs such as CPTED and proactive surveillance have helped keep this statistic from growing out of control. Further deployment of the Campus Security and Access Control system is planned in 2011.

Theft

Occurrences of theft over $5,000 have decreased in 2010. Thefts under $5000 increased significantly from 338 in 2008 to 489 in 2009 but have decreased to 330 in 2010. Thefts mainly consist of electronic equipment, wallets and cash and occur most often within campus libraries. The University of Toronto is a target rich environment with an increased number of students carrying laptops and IPods on campus, more specifically to libraries.

Overall, crime reports have decreased from 886 in 2009 to 693 in 2010.

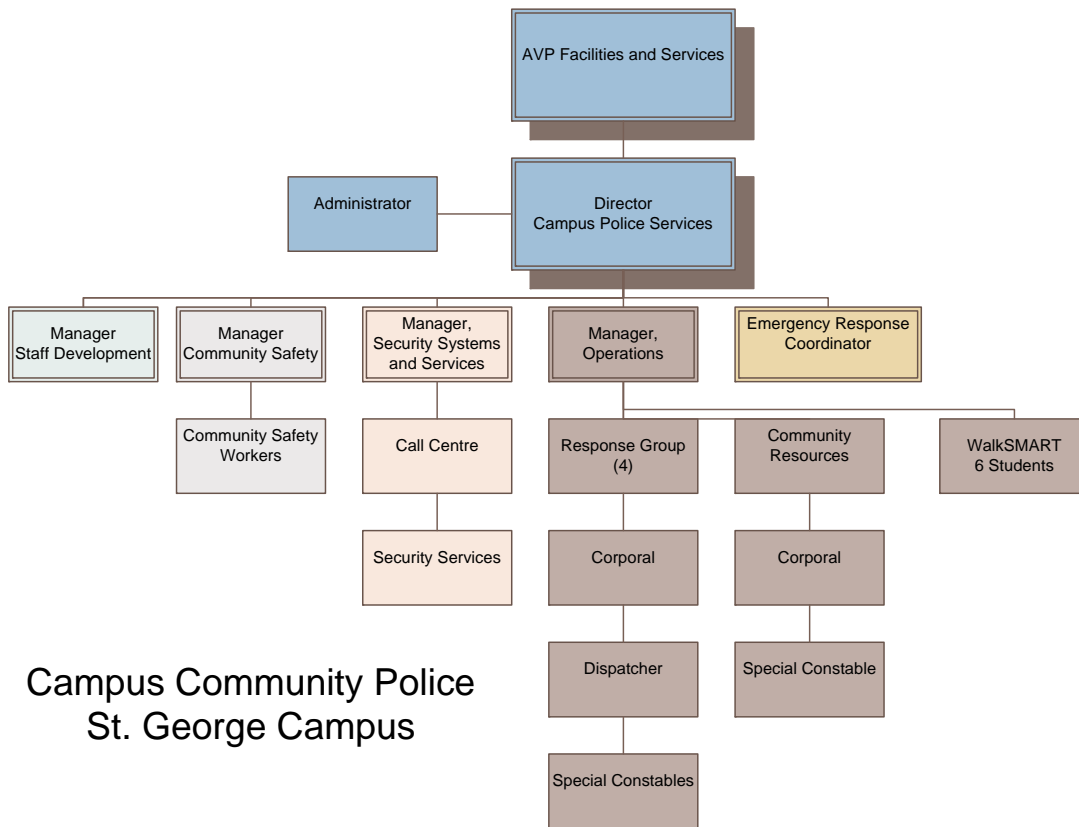

Organization, Statistics and Mandatory Reporting

Direction, Management and Supervision

The University of Toronto Campus Community Police at St. George Campus operate 24/7 utilizing groups of uniform personnel led by a manager, assisted by a lead hand and dispatcher to support and guide the special constables in their work.

The Director, Campus Police Services manages a portfolio that includes the special constable service, led by the Manager, Campus Police Operations. There are no special constables in the Community Safety Office, Security Services, Call Centre or Security Systems and Services groups. They are not part of the special constable operation and no report is made for their activity. The Community Safety portfolio includes all campuses while the special constable and other services are unique to the St. George campus.

Training

Our training mandate is designed to meet the needs of the University. Training combines directives from the Toronto Police Service, changes in law, court decisions, Federal, and Provincial standards into a comprehensive learning model.

The Service strives to keep current with community policing, public safety and law enforcement trends while recognizing trends in social development and learning from professionals within and outside the University. The training program is developed through consultation with the community, other institutions and case debriefing of situations.

The Service welcomes constructive comment from its clients. Recommendations from all levels of policing contribute to the process of designing and delivering the courses to meet the specific needs of the service and its community. The training curriculum is designed to ensure a balanced mix of mandatory skills training, sensitivity to the University environment and practical field experience. This is accomplished through a combination of on-line and in-class lectures, seminars and participative, in-group discussions to approximate campus policing situations.

Campus resources are used whenever possible, but due to the unique style of policing that is required on campus; outside resources are occasionally used. The nature of the University community requires its special constables to have a high level of understanding of the cultures, beliefs and experiences of people from all over the world. Constraints in budget have resulted in significant reduction in outside training and attendance at courses, conferences and conventions.

Understanding people and developing empathy for their situations is essential to providing community policing services. There are core learning requirements that lead to understanding diversity in many parts of the training, not just in courses titled as such. The initiatives taken are highlighted in the chart but an explanation is included to provide context.
